Protect and store business critical data with our comprehensive range of backup solutions

85% of companies who suffer significant data loss go out of business within two years. Protecting against the loss of your business critical company data - whether caused by accidental deletion, malicious attack, or hardware / software failure - has never been more important. The Internet Group meets this need with a suite of backup solutions, ranging from real-time offsite replication to traditional tape backups.

A recent survey of 100 FTSE 250 organisations, found that only 20% of companies believe they could survive more than a week without serious disruption to their business following a disaster. How long would your enterprise survive? The Internet Group's Disaster Recovery Solutions ensure that business critical data is always available - no matter what.

Disaster Recovery & Prevention Solutions

Avoid time, money and credibility costs inevitably associated with data loss

Bespoke backup plans designed for the specific needs of your enterprise. Offsite backup solutions are automated, highly reliable, secure, and require zero user intervention; they guarantee an unprecedented level of protection. We provide immediate, practical solutions to keeping your enterprise up and running in a disaster scenario, whether that be the retrieval of a deleted email or an entire network outage.
