Integrated security solutions: covering your network, your internet – and your back

Your company has become increasingly dependent on data, and The Internet Group understands the importance of protecting this information. We undertake detailed Security Audits helping you understand your exposure to both external and internal threats – from the internet to staff actions – and what you can do about it.

In regard to your physical office space, we can provide internal workspace monitoring through IP-based camera security systems, right through to real-time analysis of internet usage within your organisation. By providing a breakdown of online behaviours, including content type, individual sites visited and time spend browsing, we provide a detailed measurement of staff productivity and your company's liability and security risk exposure.

Network Security

We understand the importance of protecting your most valuable commodity – your company data.

We will provide you with a detailed inventory of all components within your IT infrastructure, including service level agreements and warranties. As part of the audit, we will silently install a probe onto your network, allowing us to evaluate the behavioral patterns of your staff's internet usage. We also provide a comprehensive software license management service, ensuring your company is up to date – and legal.

Benefits

- 24 x 7 x 365 protection for your enterprise
- The Internet Group consultancy services ensure your network is protected - from both external and internal threats
- Early warning of potential issues - from the risk posed by a Denial of Service attack to staff looking at inappropriate web content

About us

If you view IT as an investment – rather than a cost – you'll be looking for a strategic IT partner that thinks in the same way. Supporting UK and international businesses 24 x 7 x 365, The Internet Group is based in London, with co-location facilities in Birmingham and New York. Our team is composed of over 35 Microsoft and Cisco trained professionals, and in 2010 we were named as the "IT Service Excellence Supplier of the Year" by the Service Desk Institute.
